Berlin, April 22.—Germany's answer to the latest American note is likely to be delayed by some parleys and request for further information on certain points according to the Lokal Anzeiger, which says it learns that the note is a decidedly strong one and that it will be examined with German thoroughness.

Note in Kaiser's Hands.
The American note is now in the hands of Emperor William, Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and General Von Falkenhayn, chief of the general staff, at general headquarters.
A summary of the note was telegraphed yesterday to general headquarters and a counter bearing the full text and appendix was sent there by train. The deliberations of the Emperor, the Chancellor and the Chief of Staff will determine the future shaping of German-American relations.

The note appears in the newspapers of this afternoon. All is calm here.
According to a dispatch from Germany to the Overseas News agency it formed the opinion that Lyons, France, has an intensified entente blockade against neutral countries will be beginning without any preceding announcement. It is also reported that from today no neutral vessel will be answered, the dispatch adds.

Expect Word Shortly.
Washington, April 22.—With official word from the American note had been presented to the Berlin foreign office, administration officials today momentarily expected definite advice from Ambassador Gerard as to how the communication was received, together with some indication as to the nature of the German reply.

Ambassador Gerard has advised the state department that after delivering the note he conferred briefly with Foreign Minister Von Jagow as to the note. Contents of another message from the ambassador was closely guarded, although it is said that he indicated that he had been given firm assurances had been given him of a

It is known that Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador, has requested his government to modify its submarine warfare to meet America's late demands.

SEARCH FOR CORPSE
OF RUDOLPH WALVIG
IN BELOIT MYSTERY

Authorities Can Do No More Prosecuting Until Further Developments in Case of Missing Man.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Beloit, April 22.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance two weeks ago of Rudolph Walvig, foreman in the P. B. Yates machine works, resolved itself into a search for his body, in which public detective and private operatives and members of the Masonic order are united.

Until the corpse is discovered police can go no further in prosecuting Archie Fowler, machinist, who is in jail here on a warrant charging him with murder in the first degree.
Walvig had an automobile, which he had bargained to sell to Fowler.
On Saturday, April 8, the men drove in the machine into the country west of Beloit. Fowler said he paid Walvig $350 in part payment of the car, and brought him back to Beloit, but since he started on the drive Walvig has not been seen.

A systematic search of the country into which the men drove is being instituted in order to amass evidence and discover the body of the mysteriously missing man. Walvig is a widower. His five-year old daughter is being cared for by his parents.

Iowa Senator Now Leads Henry Ford
in Contest for Republican Relega-tion to G. O. P. Convention.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Omaha, April 22.—Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, is leading in the contest with Henry Ford of Detroit, for republican presidential nomination at Nebraska preferential primary held Tuesday. Complete returns from 437 counties, representing 900 precincts out of 1800, in the state have reversed the position of Cummins and Ford and given the former the slight lead of 200 votes.

It is considered practically certain that Wm. J. Bryan, former secretary of state, has been defeated for the nomination of delegates at large to the democratic national convention.
The four victors in this contest will be equally divided between supporters of Mr. Bryan and those who support the administration's preparedness policy.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock has been nominated for United States senator on the democratic ticket. Mr.
Bryan in a tour the state urged the defeat of Senator Hitchcock.

APPROPRIATIONS HOLD

Fund of $231,000 for Buildings at State
Normal Schools Passed in 1913
Found to Be in Effect.

Madison, April 22.—The Wisconsin supreme court today issued a writ of mandamus requiring the secretary of state to audit claims of the Stark Mantle & Tile Company of Milwaukee for $1,347 and the J. P. Cullen Construction Company of Janesville for $2,780 for work done on the physical education building at Whitewater normal school.

The effect of the decision is to sus-tain the validity of the law passed by the 1913 legislature appropriating $231,000 for new buildings and improvement at different normal schools in the state.

The secretary of state refused to audit the disputed claims on advice of Attorney General Owen, who ruled that the 1915 legislature repealed the appropriations made by the 1913 legislature, because it failed to include the appropriation items in the appropriation bill of 1915.

The appropriations affected by this litigation are: $45,237 at the Whitewater normal; $95,000 at Oshkosh normal; $15,000 at Milwaukee normal; $61,000 at Platteville normal; $10,000 at Stevens Point normal, and $1,100 at

DECLARE CONVICT'S
STORY OF BURYING
ARNOLD GIRL FALSE

Detectives Dig Up Celler Where Convict Says Body Was Buried and Find Only Water Main.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, April 22.—The body of Dorothy Arnold was not found in the cellar of the house outside West Point, yesterday, Police Inspector Faurot, who is in charge of the investigation, announcing today that there was no truth in the published stories that Miss Arnold's body had been discovered.

The inspector expressed the opinion that there was nothing to the story told by Octave Charles Glenneris, a convict in a Rhode Island prison, that he aided in the burial in a West Point cellar of a young woman resembling Miss Arnold.

One of the detectives who conducted the search had been quoted as saying a body was found under a cement flooring in an isolated house two miles south of West Point, but Inspector Faurot said:

"All we found in the cellar was an old four inch water main.

"The story told by Glenneris is absolutely false," added the inspector, who expressed the belief that Glenneris' motive in telling his story was the hope of obtaining a parole.

Dorothy Arnold, daughter of Francis H. Arnold, a bathy importer of this city, vanished mysteriously while on a shopping trip on Fifth avenue in 1910. The present search is one of many fruitless inquiries as result of charges constantly received by police and Arnold family.

PITTSBURGH PLANTS

Believe 28,000 Workmen Will Join in Demands for an Eight-Hour Day.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Pittsburgh, April 22.—Pickets at all entrances to the Westinghouse Elec-ing at East Pittsburgh this morning pleaded so successfully with workmen on their way to the shop that leaders in the strike inaugurated yesterday enforced an eight-hour day demand, resulting in only 5,000 of the 18,000 employees had entered.

Great crowds of strikers filled the street leading to the gates, but there was no disorder. Organization of the strikers into locals of the newly formed union was said to be proceeding rapidly.

Inside the shop, guards carefully examined lunch baskets of workmen who succeeded in passing the pickets, to prevent the introduction of explosives.
This regulation was first applied to the shell department, but was later extended to include all the shops.

Leaders of the strike announced they would organize a parade at noon to visit other towns in the Allegheny Valley in an attempt to bring out men in a number of factories which do not recognize the eight-hour day. If they succeed, they said they would have 28,000 on strike yesterday.

Louis E. Larsen in Custody of Chicago
Police Charged With Defrauding
Insurance Companies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, April 22.—Louis E. Larsen of Milwaukee, formerly president of the L. E. Larsen company, Chicago, manufacturer of stencils, is in the custody of police today on charges of having defrauded insurance companies thousands of dollars by arson.

The charges grew out of a fire which destroyed the Larsen company's plant here three years ago. Since that time Larsen has made his home in Milwaukee, where he organized the Milwaukee Steele Type and Die Company. The plant of this company, according to the state fire marshal's office, was destroyed by fire in May of last year and Larsen tried to collect $23,000 insurance on the plant. An investigation by the Wisconsin fire marshal's office led to the confession of an employee, who according to Wisconsin officials, said he was paid by Larsen to cause the fires.

Efforts were made to get Larsen to come to Chicago for prosecution, but these failed, and Tuesday a warrant for his arrest was sworn out and he was arrested in Milwaukee. He obtained his release on bond while fighting extradition and came here last night. Word was telegraphed ahead that he was coming, and his arrest at a downtown cafe followed. Larsen's attorney said there is no foundation for the charge against his client.

The arrest which destroyed the Chicago plant was the fourth of suspicious origin in the factory. According to alleged confession of the employee, the fires were caused by spontaneous combustion of stencils in tight bundles placed there under wooden stencils in various parts of the factory. The loss on the building amounted to $15,000.

After the Chinaman.
said Follet, "My name is M. Edward Follet, and I am employed in the diplomatic service of Canada."

Chinaman, zis Lee Sing Wah, is a spy, whether in his own interests or those of his own country, is not known. With some inside help, he managed to get possession of certain plans, which were in the hands of government officials at Ottawa. Zesse plans outlined in full, the positions, ze fortifications, and ze comparative strength of all ze coast defenses on ze eastern shore of England. You can easily see what it would mean to have ze plans fall into ze grasp of any foreign power. Sing Wah has zesse plans now. It is his problem to get zem out of Canada and out of the United States. Of course, he dare not use ze mail. He knows they would be searched. Zerefore, he mus' take ze packet which he has ze plans in, out of ze country himself. He is not sure anyone else I was sent together with several other persons to catch zis Lee Sing Wah and get back ze plans. I almos' got zem today, but he was too quick for me, and he shot me. Zen, he escaped.

"I was the only one who got track of him, of those who were sent to get him. I do not know where zey are now. And, with me wounded, he has ze time to get to New York and to set to work for his country. Once he gets to it. It might mean the ruin of England if zesse plans were in ze power of here enemies.

"Now, zat I am put out of commission, as it were," he smiled slightly. "I ask you boys to do your best to hinder him from reaching New York, and to try to get ze packet, although I suppose zat would be asking too much. But if you can stop him some way, if you can get him thrown into some jail for a petty offense, anything to retard him until ze proper men can get here to take charge of him, you are doing the best service to your country zat could be done."

"You boys have seen him and know him, and that is why you have a much better chance to get him zan ze authorities have. I am afraid to trust zat matter to the police. You, unknown to him, can do ze job zesse zey. And, for zis, whether or not you succeed, you will be paid well."

"What about it? Will you accept my offer?"
"I rose from his chair at the question. As far as I am concerned," said Ned, "even though it seems a bit abrupt and is if more thought ought to be taken in the decision, I am willing to do my part in helping Canada to regain the stolen plans."

"And I, too," said Ned. "And indeed, it is a favor of fortune which has cast this chance to serve our country into my lap."

Follet settled back again upon the pillow, and a look of satisfaction overspread his features. "You are ze kind of persons I thought you were," he said. "I am sure you will never regret what you have made zis decision. At ze next station you mus' get off and go up to ze train. You mus' go to ze next town to the place where we mus' use your own judgment. And, if you will open that suitcase which is on ze chair zere, you will find my purse. Zere is enough money in it to cover all your expenses. And, now, good bye, and good luck."

Toward evening of the same day, the boys found themselves in the city of Milton. Immediately upon quitting the presence of the Frenchman, they had left the train, and after a few hours wait, had succeeded in getting a train back over the route they had just covered.

"We stand a big chance of meeting with the Chinaman here," said Ned, as they got off from the train at Milton. He had sense enough to know that the police would be looking for him if he turned up in town and so he'd just stay away. We got to play in a lot of luck if we even get a glimpse of him."

"We can do our best, though," said Ned. "We promised Follet we'd get that packet. We could, and in the next twenty-four hours, we've simply got to catch sight of Lee Sing Wah. If we do see him, we can notify the police at once, and they'll tend to him. We'll be put in jail for attempted murder, but we'll hold those fellows from Ottawa get here."

"Yes," agreed Ned. "All we've got to do is to get just one look at that Chinaman, and we've done our part. Yes, but to get that one look is the thing. What shall we do first?"

"I suppose we ought to go to the police headquarters and see if they've caught him yet," Ned suggested. "If we wouldn't do any harm, and probably they could tell us something of his probable whereabouts."

"That's the best thing, I guess," said Ned, so come on. We've sure got a lot to do before night."

CHAPTER VI.

Beginning to Understand.
At the police headquarters, the boys met with a surprise.

"The man you speak of was taken into custody by policemen early this afternoon," the man at the desk told them in answer to their query.

"What's that?" they both gasped, in astonishment.

"I said that the Chinaman was taken early this afternoon," the man repeated. "What did you wish to know in regard to him?"

"We were on the train when Lee Sing Wah shot this Follet," Ned answered, and were commissioned by him to find out whether or not, when Wah was searched, a packet was found upon his person.

"There was nothing of that kind found upon him," was the reply.

"What is it possible for us to speak with the prisoner?" Ned asked.

"Not without sufficient identification," the man answered.

"Well," said Ned. "I guess we've found out all that we wanted to know at any rate. If possible, in any way, we would like to speak with Lee Sing Wah."

The clerk hesitated. "Do you come from this town, or know anyone here?" he asked, at length.

"I am New Craik of Winnipeg," Ned interposed, and my friend is Kit McDonald of Keewano. I am the son of Mr. Edward Craig, although I suppose you have never heard his name."

"You might be admitted to the cell under guard, I suppose," said the clerk. "Absolute identification is not always required."

And so, a few minutes later, a big policeman opened the door which allowed them to see the cell wherein the Chinaman was imprisoned. It took but a glance to show them that no mistake had been made, and the police had captured the real Lee Sing Wah.

"What do you want," the Oriental growled, upon their entrance.

"Nothing in particular," Kit answered.

"Did that blunderer of a Follet send you?"

"That concerns ourselves," Ned told him.

"He is a fraud," stated the Chinaman. "What'd he tell you, anyway?"

"That also, concerns ourselves," said Kit.

"Don't you believe anything he says," Lee Sing Wah cried. "He's no more of a Frenchman than you are. You watch him and see. He thinks he can imitate French dialect like a native, but every other sentence he forgets and says 'the' instead of 'ze' or 'that' instead of 'zat'. You just watch him and see."

Kit turned to Ned. "I don't think that anything can be gained by this interview," he said.

"Neither do I," Ned agreed. "Let's go."

So, after thanking the clerk for allowing them to see the Chinaman, they left the police station. Follet had told them that he would probably be taken from the train to the hospital at Superior, and they planned to take the train at once for that city, to bring their news to their employer.

"I've been thinking over what the Chinaman said," Ned remarked, as they walked toward the station. "About Follet's saying 'ze' part of the time, and 'the' part of the time. I've noticed that he does that very thing."

"I don't know what to think," replied Kit. "Perhaps he tries to say 'the' all the time and forgets, but it doesn't matter much anyway."

Superior was located not more than twenty miles from Milton, and the boys took the evening train, arriving in the city about nine o'clock at night. They passed the night at a hotel, and returned to the hospital early in the morning. Inquiry found that the Frenchman had been brought to the institution the day before and was occupying room number three hundred and seven.

"How'd you come out?" Follet asked, when at last they were ushered into his room.

"We found Lee Sing Wah, but not the packet," Kit answered, and proceeded to tell him the story of their search.

When the narration was finished, Follet was silent for a while, although he seemed to be extremely pleased when told that Sing Wah was resting securely in jail.

At length, however, he spoke. "Yesterday," he said, "he had that packet. He had it now, he does not have it. Zerefore he mus' have given it to somebody. All along, I have suspected that zere was more zan one ze plot. First, Wah, he takes ze packet, and he holds it. As long as he can, Zen, perhaps he gives it to someone else, and zat one takes care of it until it gets too warm for him. And so, maybe, he have more than one to look out for. What do you think?"

But Kit had no opinion to offer. In fact he had been paying not so much attention to what Follet was saying as the way he interchanged his "th" sound with his "ze" sound.

Temperance Talk

(By Temperance Educational League.)
The Manufacturer's Record and the Liquor Traffic.

In an article published in the Manufacturer's Record are found some valuable suggestions upon the subject of the liquor traffic. It is of special interest because of the standing of the publication as one of the leading if not foremost journals in the country devoted to the interests of manufacturers.

The Manufacturer's Record is absolutely, testatorially and in every way possible opposed to the whiskey industry, not only from an immoral influence, but from the economic standpoint. It is a curse to the country, and of such gigantic proportions that the sooner it is blotted out the better it will be for mankind. The billions of dollars that are annually spent in this country for alcoholic drinks are brought upon the land, and every dollar thus expended is an economic waste and a drain upon the physical, mental, moral and financial strength of the country.

"Moreover, the alliance of the liquor interests with the politics of the country is another curse, and to this influence is due much of the rottenness in American politics. It is amazing that while we view with indescribable horror the awful suffering from Europe's war, we are as a nation forgetful to a large extent of the millions of people who suffer from alcoholic drinks in this country, thereby shortening their lives, lessening their efficiency, halting and in many cases destroying their moral and financial standing, and making necessary a large proportion of the police service of the country, and responsible for a very large proportion of all the people in all the jails, penitentiaries and poorhouses in the land."

"The Manufacturer's Record believes in prohibition out and out, from the economic standpoint, even if there were no other ground in its favor, and it believes that every official in this country in a prohibition or prohibition state who does not rigidly enforce the law is a violator of his oath and is a perjurer when he winks at these violations, and therefore is himself a criminal who is a curse to his community."

The Following Story Unfolds the Secret of the Famous Point 7

To most people chewing gum is a mystery. They may know that different chewing gums are made from different ingredients. But that is about all. Here are facts which we believe you will be glad to know about Sterling Gum:

Your Sterling Gum is made from the following materials:

The basis is the pure sap of the tropical Sapota Tree—a natural gum.

This natural Sapota Tree sap is boiled, sweetened and flavored. The sweetening is simply pure cane sugar and pure corn syrup.

The flavoring is of two kinds—Peppermint (in red wrappers), Cinnamon (in blue wrappers).

There are some twenty varieties of the mint plant. The Sterling Peppermint is a product of the choicest, smoothest-flavored of these many mint varieties.

The spicy Cinnamon flavor is extracted from the Cassia bush which grows in the tropics.

The sap of the Sapota Tree, the cane sugar, the corn syrup, the Peppermint and Cinnamon flavors all come from the sap of some plant or tree. Nature herself supplies these delicious materials from which your Sterling Gum is made.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday. Frost to night; somewhat warmer Sunday.

EASTER MORNING.

What tidings of reverent gladness are voiced by the bells that ring a summons to men to gather today in the courts of Christ, the King, we come to our feet in adoration; what brightness greets us there? The gloom of the winter has vanished and beauty is everywhere.

O beautiful, beautiful lilies, what truths you typify!

You seemed to die in the autumn, and yet you did not die.

"All hail," the choir is chanting, with jubilation, "the Lord is risen! Rejoice, rejoice, rejoice!"

"He is risen!" O glorious message! And hearts that were heavy with sorrow hear and are comforted.

From the censers cups of the lilies rise scents of myrrh and balm.

And the soul like a lark, soars upward, winged with the Easter psalm.

And on this Easter morning, while joyful voices sing,

You repeat to all the lesson of the miracle of spring.

From the tomb in which men laid Him the stone is rolled away.

And lo! the Christ, they sing of is here in our midst today.

—Eben E. Rexford, in The Christian Herald.

This is one of many choice poems dedicated to the glad Easter anniversary. It is significant fact that the last note of the president to Germany was delivered to the Kaiser by an officer who went to the front to spend Easter day with the emperor.

While we are peacefully celebrating the day which gives us hope of immortality more than half the world is in mourning, and unmarked graves by the tens of thousands are sad reminders of sorrow-stricken homes.

There will come a time—and may God speed the day—when peace will be declared. When the horror of suspense will end, and when the remnants of broken families will be reunited.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

A company of volunteers was drawn up in line at a village railroad station. Surrounded by a large crowd of relatives, friends, and neighbors, they awaited the arrival of the soon-expected train. There were handshakings, cheering words of encouragement and hope, and weeping goodbye. Amid all this my attention was called to one in the ranks of soldierly bearing and with a face expressive of great resolution, who shook the many outstretched hands and returned the good-bys with a pleasant smile and a cheery voice till the whistle of the train was heard, when a woman, leading a little child, made her way through the throng and reached out her hand to him. She was trying to look brave, but as he drew her to him and his lips met his farewell kiss, the gushing tears that told her heart's sorrow would not be restrained. But though the smile left his face and his eyes had a strange, faraway look, they were dimmed by no tears until she lifted up the little boy, saying, amid choking sobs, "Kiss Johnny." Then as he clasped the little fellow in his arms and pressed his lips to the tender cheek, I saw the strong breast heave, the firm lips tremble, and the tear drops roll down the bronzed cheek and over the rugged beard till they rested like glistening pearls on the fair face of the child. My own eyes refused to see more, and I turned away; but I had seen the last kiss that father's lips ever pressed to the cheek of little Johnny.

Mr. Speaker, I shall not vote to bring again those scenes in the land I love so well because some person insists on traveling on an armed belligerent merchantman into the zone of war. There are other ships on which he can go—American ships under the American flag. He is not obliged to travel on an armed belligerent vessel, nor should the government be obliged to defend one who deliberately endangers the welfare of his fellow citizens and the peace of the republic of the United States of America by recklessly insisting upon the exercise of a "doubtful legal right."

This pathetic story is the closing paragraph in a speech delivered by Congressman H. A. Cooper before the House of Representatives, when the resolution was being discussed to warn American citizens not to travel on armed belligerent merchantmen.

Mr. Cooper has been severely criticized by people of strong pro-English prejudices, but his arguments for peace are so clear and convincing that they express the sentiment of all unprejudiced minds.

The resolution under discussion had been held up by the president, who was so busy writing notes to Germany about "my government" that he viewed with disfavor any advice or interference, as he proposed to handle the situation himself, be the consequences what they may.

With a democratic congress back of him ready to do his bidding, he has had his own way, and so, one day this week, he sends to Germany an ultimatum, and then has the nerve to ask the people's representatives what they propose to do about it. Not a czar, exactly, but a weak imitation.

The president, of course, cannot declare war, but he can humiliate the nation by doing a lot of foolish things, and this is what he has been doing persistently, both as regards Mexico and our foreign relations.

It is all right to an academic mind to warn Americans to "get out of Mexico," and all wrong to say to our citizens, "You travel at your own peril in the war zone on the high seas." Congress has been hearing from home for the past two or three days, and the sentiment expressed is so overwhelmingly against war that the president has already commenced to back up.

There will be no war with Germany for the very good reason that the people are opposed to it, and this

Germany thoroughly understands President Wilson flatters himself with belief that he has kept the nation out of war, when the fact is that we have kept out of it in spite of his weak and vacillating policy.

Congressman Cooper is right in his attitude, and the American people are with him. The war zone on the high seas is a part of the world's great battlefield. Our people have knowledge of this fact, and have had ample warning.

War, of necessity, makes many laws that are inhuman, and international law suffers because of this necessity. The American flag, or the flag of any other neutral nation, insures safe passage, and foolhardiness does not merit national protection.

The Chicago Tribune of yesterday had an editorial on Wilson which was absolutely fair and impartial. After giving him credit for all the good points possessed—and there are many—the writer concludes that he is the weakest president since Buchanan. When the history of his administration is written this judgment will be verified.

"Who shall be his successor is the problem which will soon confront the country. His nomination for re-election by his own party is practically assured, and it is up to the national republican convention, to be held in Chicago in June, to select a man who can defeat him and restore the nation. The issues involved are greater than the tariff or any other home issue, for while the map of the world may not be changed, at the close of the war, a period of reconstruction will follow, in which America will play an important part, and statesmanship of the highest type will be in demand.

The republican party has always been equal to great emergencies and it will rise to the occasion in the present crisis. Politics, dissensions, and old scores should be forgotten, and a man selected, who will not only honor the nation, but who possesses the ability to guide the ship of state successfully.

While America is not a monarchy, the office of president carries with it great authority, never greater, than today. The people have wholesome respect and the highest regard for a great leader. His word is law on many questions, and they honor him with loyal support.

The contest for the republican nomination seems to have narrowed down to two men—Chief Justice Hughes and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Hughes has maintained a dignified silence, as becomes his office. The colonel is seldom silent, and people usually know where to find him.

When he booted the Chicago convention four years ago, and disrupted the party, many of his close friends forsook him, and denounced him as a traitor, but history has been making fast since then, and questions of vital importance have demanded and still demand attention.

The New York Tribune opposed Roosevelt bitterly four years ago, but this old, conservative paper, came out for him strong, a few days ago, as will be seen by the following editorial:

"The 'Tribune' regards Senator Root, its favorite so long as he had a chance of nomination, as now practically eliminated. * * * The party thinks that Mr. Root would not be so likely to win as either Colonel Roosevelt or Justice Hughes, and it wants him as secretary of state in the next republican administration, since it cannot have him as president.

"We are for Colonel Roosevelt because we believe the country needs him. No one else will quicken the pulse of the nation as he will quicken it. No one else will stir the conscience of the people as he will stir it. No one else will inspire patriotism as he will inspire it.

"No one else personifies the issue which the republican party must make as he personifies it. No one else presents so effective an antithesis to Wilson as he. If we are Americans, real Americans, the colonel is our man.

"We are for Colonel Roosevelt in spite of the fact that we were against him four years ago. No one fought him harder than we. No one will fight harder for him. It has not been easy to put aside our pride, our sense of resentment at what occurred in 1912, and the hundred other things that tend to keep alive divisions. But we have put them aside and are putting them aside because we feel that they have no place in a crisis like this. We come out for Colonel Roosevelt as a republican newspaper, intending to remain republican, and we feel that in doing so we are doing the best thing not only for the nation but for the republican party.

"We are doing more this year than choosing a new president. We are choosing which way the country shall go in the era that is now opening, just as our fathers chose the nation's path in the days of 1860."

Colonel Roosevelt may not be nominated, but if he should be he will be elected and the country will have a president. Whatever may be the action of the convention it must be endorsed and the candidate loyally supported. Party harmony is vital to the welfare of the country this year.

GERMANY REFUSES TO CARRY EASTER GIFTS IN MAIL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Berlin, April 22.—In order to prevent the loading down of the army mails with Easter gifts this year, the German military authorities have caused notices to be published in the press reminding the soldiers' relatives and friends that such things will not be forwarded. The notice also informs the people that, while all recognition of the spirit of good will prompting these gifts, the sending of articles that easily spoil, such as eggs, sausages, etc., would not be in accordance with the strict economy demanded by the present state of affairs.

HAVE PURE BLOOD

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Pure, Rich, Red Blood.

Your heart works night and day without a pause. It is the principal organ of the circulations of your blood. It is of the utmost importance that it should do its work well. The quality and quantity of your blood have much to do with its action. If this fluid is pure and abundant, your heart and other vital organs act with more energy than when it is defective in quality or deficient in quantity.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure and abundant. It is the best old reliable medicine that has been sold for forty years for purifying the blood. There is no better blood remedy. Appetizer, stomachic, it embodies the careful training, experience, and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years, in its quality and power to cure.

THE CHURCH'S EASTER MESSAGE

I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die.—John, 11: 25, 26.

Easter has a floral meaning; it has an artistic meaning; it has a musical meaning. Yet all these are but echoes and types of the Spiritual meaning of the great day which will be kept tomorrow.

Easter is the anniversary of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

Church attendance is greater on this day than on any other day of the year. Some persons will go to church tomorrow who have not done so for months. The music and the flowers and the crowds may be partly responsible for this. And yet we are persuaded that the deep spiritual significance of the day is really the underlying reason.

A hunger for the Resurrection not in their lives, the yearning for the answer to the age long question, "If a man die shall he live again?" draws men within sound of the Easter Message.

Yesterday and tomorrow constitute the loftiest, deepest and all inclusive reason why men should attend church. Not once a year but as a part of their life's routine.

GOOD-FRIDAY AND EASTER—THE UPLIFTED CROSS AND THE OPEN TOMB ARE THE HEART OF THE CHURCH'S PLAN AND MESSAGE. They stand for her message of Redemption and Life.

The Cross and the empty tomb differentiate the church from all other institutions and organizations. They are the symbols of her divine nature and mission.

THE CHURCH'S EASTER MESSAGE IS A MESSAGE OF LIFE. It is a fuller life. A life of high altitudes and far ranges. She hears and echoes the message of her Lord "I am come that they might have life and might have it more abundantly."

For many, life is impoverished; our souls are starved; we lack vitality of spirit. We are eagles, born for the higher air, but bound to the earth.

But to all the Church brings an Easter message, of a new life, a risen life, a divine life. "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength, shall mount up with wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint."

Easter is the day of Hope eternal. It brings to our mind those "love-long since and lost awhile." We remember most of all the Redeemer who broke death's power and assures us of a resurrection and a life beyond the grave.

It is the Easter message of the church of the living God that makes it possible for us to say "ON DEATH, WHERE IS THY STING? GRAVE, WHERE IS THY VICTORY? The sting of death is sin and the strength of sin is the Law. BUT THANKS BE TO GOD WHICH GIVETH US THE VICTORY THROUGH OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST."

The message of Easter is again the message that the only way to abundant and glorified life is through willingness to suffer and do and give for others. "This it behooved Christ to suffer and to enter into his glory." And as he approached the cross the Master said "except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone."

In every church tomorrow, what ever its name or usage, one may hear in Scripture, sermon and song, the message of life, of hope, of victory, of a daily life of fellowship with, and victory through our risen Lord which shall blossom into an everlasting life of fellowship with him around the throne of God.

To the hearing of this message tomorrow we summon the reader.

AN EASTER PRAYER.

Oh Almighty God, hear Thy people, who are this day met to glorify the resurrection of Thy Son our Lord; and guide them on from this festival to eternal gladness, from the exulting joy of this solemnity to joys that have no end. For this is the day of man's resurrection, the birthday of eternal life; in which we have been satisfied with Thy mercy in the morning, in which the blessed one who cometh in the name of the Lord, and who is our God, hath shone upon us. Amen.

Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that sleep. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.—Corinthians, XV: 20-22.

HOW EASTER DAY IS FIXED.

The rule which makes Easter "First Sunday after the first full moon after the sun crosses the line," was adopted over 1200 years ago. By this arrangement of things, Easter may come as early as March 22, or as late as April 25, but must forever oscillate between the dates mentioned.

The word Easter is said to be from the German "oster" (rising). It is the Christian pasover or festival of the resurrection of Christ. The English name for the day is probably derived from that of the Teutonic goddess Oster, whose festival occurred at about the same time as our celebration of Easter. The proper time for celebrating the festival was a theme which gave rise to much heated discussion among early Christians. The question was fully considered and finally settled at the council of Nice, 225 A. D., by adopting the rule which makes it fall upon the first Sunday after the 21st of March. During the present century Easter has fallen from one to four times on every date between March 20 and April 25, except March 21, which has been skipped entirely.—Selected.

FEAR THAT METAL BUTTON OF WILLIAM PENN STATUE WILL FALL TO STREET

Philadelphia, April 22.—The possibility that bronze old-William Penn, who tops City Hall tower, 500 feet in the air, will drop a 50 pound metal button from his coat onto the heads of pedestrians, has caused the authorities to employ stepladders to make a thorough investigation of him. A preliminary investigation developed that in addition to the loose button several big bronze rosettes about the base of the statue also are in danger of falling off. Philadelphia girls, while jiving flowers, would not care to have one of these boquets thrown at them.

REFRIGERATOR TALKS

A series of "TALKS" will be devoted to the savings accrued by the use of a refrigerator in the household. It is a mistake to think that a refrigerator is a luxury. It should be used by every economical family.

MILK IS ONE OF THE IMPORTANT ARTICLES OF FOOD.

Stringent regulations have been passed for its clean and sanitary gathering and distribution.

WHY SHOULD SUCH MEASURES BE ENFORCED, IF THE HOUSEHOLDER leaves the milk standing on the porch, exposed to the heat of the sun or left standing in a room of a higher temperature than the milk delivered?

CLOUDY OR RAINY DAYS HAVE A SERIOUS EFFECT ON MILK AND MAKE IT UNFIT FOR TABLE USE.

IF YOU USE A REFRIGERATOR YOU NEED NOT FEAR THE SUDDEN CHANGES OF THE WEATHER AND TEMPERATURES. No more spoiled milk and cream.

BRIDGE SUIT COMPLAINTS ARE SERVED

STATE ACTION AGAINST MILWAUKEE STREET BRIDGE PROPERTY HOLDERS SEEKS TO "ABATE" NUISANCE.

INJUNCTION IS SOUGHT

Would Restrain Edwin F. Carpenter and William McWay From Erecting Buildings Over Rock River.

Madison, April 22.—The abatement of the Sutherland block in Janesville a public nuisance and a permanent mandatory injunction restraining Edward F. Carpenter and William McWay from erecting a new building over the Rock river at Janesville, is asked in an action started in the name of the State of Wisconsin with the direction of Attorney General Owen, and the consent of Governor E. L. Philipp today.

The action instituted is against George Sutherland, M. G. Jeffris, Wm. S. Jeffris, Edwin F. Carpenter and William McWay.

The action against Sutherland and the Jeffris is to abate the Sutherland block and Rock river block at Milwaukee street and Rock river, and against Carpenter and McWay is to restrain them from the erection of a new building.

These actions are brought under that section of the water power law held constitutional by the supreme court. That portion of the law gives power to the state in abatement of nuisances. It is estimated at the attorney general's office that upward of $2,000,000 is involved in the litigation.

The matter will probably come to trial in June in the Rock county circuit court.

The conditions in Rock river at Janesville were brought to attention of the railroad commission nearly a year ago. The commission made findings after hearing and the findings were certified to Governor Philipp. On the 21st day of September, 1915, Governor Philipp directed in writing the attorney general to take such action as he deemed proper.

"My attention has been called to the fact that certain persons, residents in the city of Janesville, in this state, have constructed certain obstructions in that city extending into Rock river, and that other persons in that city contemplate the construction of buildings extending into Rock river, and that such obstructions and buildings have produced and are producing further produce, unlawful obstructions in the river, in violation of the provisions of section 1596 of the statutes. For such specific information concerning the subject, you are referred to the report of an investigation into the matter heretofore made by the railroad commission and which is attached to and by my predecessor in office."

"You are hereby directed, in accordance with the provisions of section 1596 of the revised statutes, 1913, to institute proceedings, at your earliest convenience to snuff and restrain the construction of the proposed buildings or other obstructions and to abate and remove the obstructions already in said river, or to take such further steps as may be provided in section 1596 to the end that the said Rock river will not be unlawfully obstructed."

"Very truly yours,"
"E. L. PHILIPP,"
Ask for Property's Removal.
The action today is brought in pursuance of this letter. The complaint against Sutherland contains the following prayer:

"Wherefore the plaintiff demands the judgment of this court that the building known as Sutherland block located upon the said river, and herein described, be abated as a public nuisance, and that the defendant, his agents, servants, employees and those under him, be perpetually enjoined from maintaining, repairing or in said river, the said building, the piers or foundations thereof, and from constructing any buildings or placing any obstruction in said river, or any other place, and for such other and further judgment as may be just and equitable, and for its costs and disbursements in this action."

All of the complaints are signed by Attorney General W. C. Owen.

The complaints in question were in the hands of Sheriff A. Chamberlain today. The one against George Sutherland was served this morning and those against the other men were to be served late this afternoon.

MAY CONTEST VALUE PLACED ON DAM SITE

Wisconsin-Minnesota Power Company May Appeal From Railroad Commission's Figure.

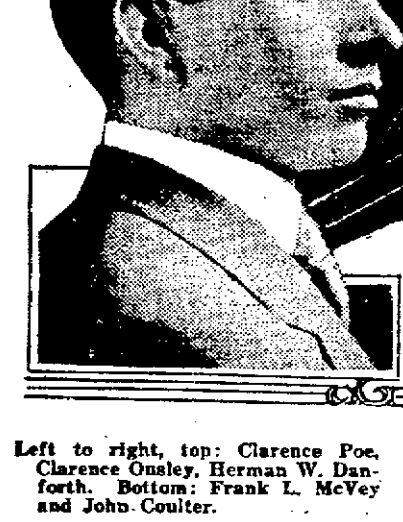

Madison, Wis., April 22.—That the Wisconsin-Minnesota Power company will contest the valuation fixed by the Wisconsin railroad commission on the Paint Creek site in Chippewa county is the current opinion here. This dam is to furnish electric power to Minneapolis and St. Paul. It is said here that the agents of the companies claim that the valuation allowed by the state should have been at least $1,000,000 more than that finally fixed by the commission. The construction work on the dam will of course proceed, and the valuation lies in the fact that the state might ultimately desire to take the property over. In that case the valuation of the riparian rights as fixed by the commission at this time would be controlling.

Rink open Sunday afternoon & eve.

The long haired tiger is found throughout Manchuria wherever there is hilly country, but is never found on the plains. It is extremely difficult to bag and is by no means numerous. In addition to tigers the following game may be found in Manchuria: Bear (black and brown), wapi ti, Sika deer (two species), roe deer, serow, wild pig, leopard and lynx. All however, are scarce and hard to bag with the exception of roe deer and pig.—London Globe.

TRESPASSER KILLED BY BELOIT FREIGHT

Man Named Lund, Struck by Freight Engine When He Failed to Leave Track Far Enough.

Beloit, Wis., April 22.—A poorly dressed pedestrian upon whose right forearm was tattooed the name of W. Lund, was killed early today three miles north of Beloit when he was struck by a C. & M. and St. Paul freight train in charge of Engineer E. B. Daws. The engine whistled and the man stepped off the track, but not far enough. The buffer-beam struck him, breaking his back, his collarbone and his skull.

Really Antique.
An excellent plaster of paris cast may be seen in one of the Egyptian galleries of the British museum of the famous sycamore statuette known as the "Sheikh-el-Belad," or "Village Sheikh." The original dates from 2800 B. C. and is still in perfect condition, although it is the oldest known specimen of woodcarving. It represents an overseer of the workmen engaged in building the pyramids close to Sakkarah, where it was discovered.—London News.

Everlasting Bricks.
Once made a brick is practically indestructible. Nearly every brick that has ever been made by man from the beginning of time is still in existence on this earth. The men who made and laid them and who directed these operations have long since been gathered into dust. Some of them have doubtless contributed in their bodies to the making of more bricks. But the steadfast and enduring square of baked clay persists and will until the heavens and earth are shriveled like a scroll.—Exchange.

Ceiba Tree of Honduras.
The tree known as la ceiba is one of the dominating features of the landscape in Honduras. It rises to a height of seventy or eighty feet before branching, and then a broad top spreads out like a huge umbrella. The trees are commonly six feet or more in diameter, but the wood is soft and not considered valuable for lumber. It is white, and many persons think it would be valuable for paper pulp. The tree bears a silky cotton, which is used to some extent for stuffing cushions.—Commerce Reports.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

OF DAISY DEAN

It was found necessary to charter an ocean liner recently for the spectacular fire scene in "The Isle of Love." Edwin Middleton is directing the story at Jacksonville, Florida, with Gertrude McCoy as the star. Iva Shepard and Earl C. Schenck are prominent in her support. In the action of the fire scenes, Miss McCoy, Mr. Schenck, and more than a hundred extra people, were called upon to jump from the smoking vessel into the water. Strange to relate, when it came to the filming, Director Middleton's "exposure stuff" the weather on the chosen day was gently mild and warmly smiling. The previous week had been cold and gloomy.

MISS YOUNG TO BE A BUSY PERSON.

What is said to be an innovation in picture making will be introduced. Miss Young has worked out a plan by which she can produce two features simultaneously.

Two directors will be selected, and their work so scheduled that, while one is having sets built on the studio floor for some of his interior scenes, Miss Young will be out on location working with the other director in another picture. Lewis J. Selznick, president and general manager of the new corporation, is discussing the plan, pointed out that it will thus be possible to finish twelve five-reel features in a year.

"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row," written by Howard McKent Barnes, will be one of the early five-reel releases of May. It deals with the little girls of bargain row from whose lives the light and sunshine have been crushed out, and with the little shepherd who brings them out of their misfortune into clean green fields of open life.

Wayne Avery, riding in the New York subway recently, had his pocket picked. Fortunately the "dip" missed the pocket with the wallet, his total amount of booty amounting to a roll of "stage" money.

"The Other Way" is another three-part feature which was filmed with a cast of players of the house division, including Mary Anderson, Webster Campbell, Anne Schaefer, Otto Lederer and Corinne Griffith.

You are soon to see Florence Lawrence on the screen for the first time since she has "come back" in a production called "The Elusive Isabel."

Newark now has two men on the roster who have brothers in the big show who are stars. Jimmy Magee, brother of Sherwood Magee of the Boston Braves, and Florence Milan, brother of Clyde Milan of the Washington Senators, are the men. Both are outfielders.

"Joe" Gedeon, the new second baseman of the Yankees, looks like a real live ball player. It is little wonder that Clark Griffith made such an awful squawk when he discovered that Donovan's gang had corralled this promising youngster.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME ...

Copyright 1915 by Frank H. Spearman.

Within the box car where they had taken refuge, Ward and Adams were trying to open Rhineland's bag. They had succeeded in negotiating the lock when, to their consternation, Helen, through the open side door, swung down and in on them from the roof. The thieves jumped to their feet. But before Adams was up, Helen had knocked him over again, and as Ward jumped at her, she managed to shoot out her foot at the handbag. By a fortunate chance she kicked it cleanly out of the car. Freeing herself from Ward's clutches with an energetic blow, she sprang to the door herself and jumped after the bag from the fact-moving car to the ground.

Adams, when Helen pushed him over, had struck his head against an iron bar and he lay on the car floor almost unconscious. Ward turned to him the minute Helen was gone. "Wake up!" he shouted. "We've got to get out of here."

"What's up?" demanded Adams, groggily.

"We're left, man. Shake yourself and get out of here before you get pinched."

Waiting their chance when their train slowed down in passing the next station, the two men jumped out of the box car. Down the line Ward saw the bridge they had passed when Helen sprang from the car. "That girl can't be far off yet," he muttered. "She may be hunting for the bag. If we get there quick enough, we can get hold of it ourselves."

Helen, running fast as she could, searched the right of way keenly. Help was nearer to her than she was aware of. But she had eyes for nothing beyond her search, and, finally, hardly a stone's throw from the bridge itself, she saw the bag lying on the gravel.

The nearest station was to the north. Helen began to retrace her steps, thinking to telephone or to get somehow in touch with Rhineland from there. Hastening on, she heard her name called, and, looking up, was astonished to see Spike waving his hand at her from the bridge just ahead. He and Rhineland, following the train in the machine, had seen her spring from the box car.

She started to run forward to join Spike. But Ward and Adams had come up. Seeing Helen approach, they hid, and when she passed they seized and overpowered her and dragged the bag from her hands.

Not without stout resistance on her part. She fought the two with blows and screams, and Spike, hearing the commotion, ran to where he could slip over the side of the bridge and drop to the tracks. Shouting loudly as he scrambled to his feet, he ran to where Ward and Adams were fighting Helen, who had again got her hands on the bag. But when Spike reached the scene the encounter was short.

Ward, the more powerful of Seagrue's men, engaged him furiously, and, as a boxer, would have put him out, had not Spike clenched and slammed the big fellow heavily to the ground. He jumped at Adams before Ward could come back, and the two crooks, seeing the game lost, took to their heels.

Spike turned to see what damage had been done to Helen. She had the bag safely in hand and they started together to join Rhineland.

The bag was now committed to Spike for safekeeping, and Rhineland headed the car for the city in an effort to reach Seagrue's quarters quickly with the payment. Burning the tires all the way into town, he pulled up with a jerk before Seagrue's

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"What is known as the 'Human Question Mark' is the featured attraction with 'The Charlie Chaplin Revue,' which is coming to Myers Theatre for a three days engagement April 27, 28, 29, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, matinee Saturday.

The claim is not made that he is Charlie Chaplin, but the management asks, 'If he is not Chaplin, who is he?' The answer is a very conflicting rumor regarding the fair, famed comedian, that no one can truthfully say they know for a fact just where he really is, or just what he is doing at the present time. Some two weeks ago, the report was made that Sousa's Band at a Sunday evening concert at the Hippodrome in New York, a day or two afterward it was reported for over an hour in front of a Chicago theatre, which was running one of his pictures, and no one recognized him as being the famous humorist. On the day he was in Chicago, he was a dispatch from Los Angeles saying he had arrived and would start immediately to work, making new films for the corporation which is said to be paying him the fabulous salary of $670,000 per year. It is obvious Charlie Chaplin cannot be in three widely separated points at one and the same time, hence the interest in the real identity of the man who is to appear here.

"The Charlie Chaplin Revue" contains six carefully selected vaudeville acts, besides the Chaplin mystery, and it is claimed to be one of the best vaudeville road shows ever gathered together for strictly amusements purposes, and appearing at really popular prices.

AT THE APOLLO.

Charlotte Walker in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

In presenting the beautiful American actress, Miss Charlotte Walker, in a picturization of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" from the play by Eugene Walter, based on the novel by John Fox, Jr., Jesse L. Lasky offers a beautiful picturization of the wonderful scenic and dramatic incidents in the story of a United States revenue officer to stop the illegal manufacture of whiskey among the moonshiners in the mountains of Virginia, and against a band of rough mountaineers, led by Judd Tolliver. The "moonshiner's" daughter, June—the role played by Miss Walker—falls in love with the government agent, and is caught between her affection for her people in the mountains and the young stranger who would ruin their illicit traffic.

The cast of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is one of the most notable gathering of screen stars in months. Theodore Roberts will appear as Judd Tolliver, Thomas Meighan will play the role of John Hale, the revenue officer, and Earl Fox will appear as Dave Tolliver. This Paramount picture will be seen Monday night at the Apollo.

"The Rosary" on Tuesday. At the Apollo Theatre on Tuesday the ladies St. Patrick's church will present "The Rosary," a seven-reel adaptation of the famous play by Edward E. Rose. This production from the studios of Selig and is one of the great apartment and the three, alighting from the car, hastened up to his rooms.

Seagrue, expecting the return of Ward and Adams with their loot, caught his breath when he faced Rhineland and his escort at the door. Rhineland he could account for. Helen, he was not at a great loss to account for; but to see the craning neck, square jaw, straight nose and cold, gray eye of Spike in the twilight of the hallway was too much for even Seagrue's poise. When they pushed their way in upon him, he made hardly any attempt to resist. "I wasn't looking for you," he stammered.

Rhineland laughed. "No! I understand. However, it's all right. A couple of your men, Seagrue, had this bag in hand"—he held up the leather grip for Seagrue's inspection—"to bring to you." Rhineland's eyes were sparkling with the zest of victory. "They were detained, Seagrue," he went on, enjoying to the full the consternation of the breathless rascal before him. "In fact, the two met with a little accident." He nodded toward Helen as the little accident, herself. "The police are looking for the pair now," explained Rhineland, jestingly. "But we thought it only neighborly to bring the bag in, ourselves. Especially since you seem to consider that our title to the Superstition mine rests on your receiving the actual cash today for the second payment."

While speaking, Rhineland had gone to the table, thrown the bag open and was tossing the packages of currency out. "There's your money, Seagrue—twenty-five thousand dollars. Count it, Seagrue, and give me a receipt."

est productions of the year. The players whose features have become known the world over while working under the Selig banner and have the leading roles in this silent drama are Kathlyn Williams, Charles Clary, Wheeler Oakman, Frank Clark, Eugene Bessner and Sid Smith. Both dramatic action and artistic temperament the excellently blended and coupled with these is the acting of the players mentioned, Father Kelly, who will be remembered by those who saw the play or read the book, is the pivot about which the celluloid drama revolves and his character, as well as the others in the play, is so realistically portrayed that it appears to be living beings.

A program of local talent has also been arranged.

AT THE APOLLO.

"He Fell in Love With His Wife." Florence Rockwell, the beautiful star who played leading lady to Nat Goodwin and Richard Mansfield, and who starred in the latest New York successes, plays the name part in the film version of E. P. Roe's book, "He Fell in Love With His Wife," at the Apollo on Wednesday. Forrest Stanley looks very handsome and manly in the part of James Holcroft, the stalwart farmer, which part he plays with an appealing likableness. A highly humorous caricature of the heavy drinking, poor cooking, Irish Bridget is remarkably portrayed by Lydia Yeaman Titus.

Wilson Ostrom, the false husband, is played by Page Peters.

Howard Davies carries with his finished ability the part of Tom Watterly, the poorhouse superintendent, and Holcroft's friend.

With this able cast, the successful book and play has been made by the Pallas Pictures into a strong, dramatic, and appealing love story.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Peg o' My Heart."

While the coming of "Peg o' My Heart" is in itself a matter of genuine theatrical moment, the fact that it will be presented by the Boston cast, with Oliver Morosco, the producer, claims it as the best cast ever assembled for his production of the Monnars comedy, lends added expectancy to its engagement. "Peg o' My Heart" will be the attraction at the Myers Theatre Sunday, April 30, evening only, with Florence Martin in the title role; Madeline L'Estrange as Mrs. Chichester; Lillian

Kemble Cooper as Ethel, her daughter, the snobbish English society girl; York Erskine as Alaric, her brother, an English cad; Edmund Dabry as Christian Brent; Charles Benton as Montgomery Hawks, the solicitor; and Fred L. Tilden as Jerry, the nobleman, the final engagement here will beyond doubt be one of the interesting attractions of the current season. Mail orders for tickets filled now. The box office sales will open on experience. Almost everybody has been marveling at the knowledge Meyers has of the fine points of edge and could not understand where he had picked them up until Meyers informed Mack that he had been under the wing of Bill Sullivan, the veteran catcher, while with the White Sox, four years ago.

BEVERLY THEATRE WILL OPEN TUESDAY

"PEGGY" WILL BE OPENING PICTURE

Billie Burke's First Screen Appearance to Be Shown Tuesday at the New Beverly.

The management of the new Beverly Theatre has secured for their opening attraction, Billie Burke in the eight reel feature "Peggy," on Tuesday.

One of the features of "Peggy" is the group of scenes in fairyland. Billie Burke, who is the star of the play, starts out to tell a group of children a fairy tale. She has been tinkering on her auto and is in overalls. As she sits on the running board of her car, she holds one foot on her knee, while the others perched alongside or behind her.

Billie Burke in Pajamas in the New Triangle-Fine Arts Romantic Comedy "Peggy."

As heroine of her own fairy story, Miss Burke is then shown tripping through the moonlight. First she meets a bevy of gnomes, with grotesque faces and forms, and wearing fantastic peaked caps and gowns, then she finds herself in an assemblage of bugs, one of which is a fairy prince, transformed by a wicked old witch. She hears the pathetic tale of the erstwhile prince, now king of the bugs. Then Peggy flies to a wise old goat, and procures from him some magic water. This she scatters over the bug king and he becomes the fairy prince again, gracefully offering his hand and his heart to the pretty maiden. The witch, sorely vexed, swells up till she can no more leave her narrow-doored house.

A striking bit of photography is that in which Peggy throws the magic water on the bug. "Presto!" up stands the prince—a startling transformation.

Ethel Clayton in "Dollars and the Woman." Ethel Clayton is given the feature role in a splendid cast assigned to the six-reel production of "Dollars and the Woman," which is the feature for Wednesday at the Beverly. The photoplay scenario was made by Mark Swan from Albert Payson Terhune's popular story published under the title of "Dollars and the Woman."

Those who insist upon digging into everything until a moral is unearthed will not have to hunt far in "Dollars and the Woman" before perceiving that the married woman who, even innocently, accepts financial assistance from any other man than her husband is seeing on the brink of a precipice. And when her husband is poor and her benefactor is not only wealthy but a former suitor for her hand, she is lighting matches in a powder factory.

Members of her sex, however, and members of the opposite sex too, for that matter, will find a degree of justification in the necessities of Madge Boynton, the character in "Dollars and the Woman," so deftly handled by Ethel Clayton. Her ambitious but in one respect thoughtless husband will not escape censure. There are several moments when a note from him to his wife would have helped matters considerably, but then there would have been no story for Albert Payson Terhune to write and consequently no photoplay to receive the sumptuous treatment that the Lubin company has bestowed upon "Dollars and the Woman," which will be seen at the Beverly Theatre on Wednesday.

Robert Edeson in "The Cave Man." Of the long list of plays adapted for the screen, the one best suited to the camera's requirements, the one whose varying situations lend themselves to the lights and shades of exceptional photographic art, is "The Cave Man," the Vitaphone feature at the Beverly on Thursday, featuring Robert Edeson in the character of Hauling Smagge. "The Cave Man" was written by George Burgess and originally produced in Providence, Rhode Island, as a legitimate comedy-drama with Mr. Edeson in the portrayal of the leading character. His familiarity with the leading character's possibilities became apparent when he began to work on the story for the screen, and when the limitations of the stage left wide divergences in the continuity of the story, the camera caught the various scenes in that sequence of deftly fitted-in situations impossible to the stage, that rounds out a story leaving no essential point to the imagination.

"Nobody Home," In Two Acts. Act 1.—Opportunity knocks. "Who's that?" asked the wife of her husband. "Nobody. Maybe a beggar. Let him knock. Nobody home," replied the lapsed husband.

Twenty years have elapsed. Act 2.—"What's that noise?" asked the old man of his old wife.

The noise is repeated. "There it is again. Go to the window and see what it is," said the old husband.

Wife goes to window and peers through the tattered curtains. Comes back. "It is the wolf," she says. "I won't go, as did the other visitor we turned away."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

BUILDERS OF THE BEVERLY THEATRE

Local People Who Had a Part in the Building of the New Playhouse.

To the general contractors, A. Summers & Son, is due the credit of transforming one of the worst eyesores in Janesville into a place of beauty. One can hardly imagine that the new theatre is located where the old garage used to be. This contracting firm assumed a multitude of details and carried them through to an almost fire-proof playhouse.

The Millwork. The Fifield Lumber company of this city furnished the millwork or fancy paneling. This is much in evidence as one looks about the theatre and adds a great deal to the general beauty.

Builders Hardware. The metal fittings or hardware was selected from the stock of the Sheldon Hardware company. Yale locks were used while the patent safety exit bolts are Sargents. Good hardware puts the finishing touch to any good building.

Electric Wiring. The electric wiring of a motion picture theatre is a very important function. This work was done with great credit by F. A. Albrecht.

Misfits. You can say "The tongue is an unruly member," but what the Apostle James (III, 8) wrote is, "But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil."

Peter (first iv, 8) said, "Charity shall cover the multitude of sins," not "Charity covereth a multitude of sins."

Butler said in "Eudibras" (part 3), "He that complies against his will is of his own opinion still." As generally misquoted, "A man convinced against his will will hold the same opinion still."

MISSOURI MAN FINDS OLD KILN OF EARLY SETTLERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 22.—Dr. H. M. Wheelpley, chairman of the archaeological committee of the Missouri Historical society has announced the discovery of an old kiln, containing many pieces of pottery, on the side of a hill here.

The pottery is much like that which the Indians made, but Dr. Wheelpley thinks it is the work of early white settlers. The kiln, which apparently was built by white men, was shaped like a beehive and had a diameter of about four feet.

The kiln was unearthed by Joseph H. Vorst of St. Genevieve, who was excavating for an addition to his home. He will build a shelter over the kiln and preserve it.

"No, I don't say that; I only meant that you had misconceived it. Love is the truest, finest thing we know."

"Give Us a Job If We Come Back Tomorrow?"

It can never be the tool of evil; it may even breathe new life into the benumbed conscience.

Again a silence came and sat between them; and, as before, it was the man who broke it.

"You lead me to a conclusion that I refuse to accept. Amy; that I am dominated by some influence which is stronger than love."

"You are," she said simply.

"What is it?"

"Environment."

"That is the most humiliating thing you have said today."

"No. However much others may be deluded, I am sure you can see Mirapolis in its true light. The very air you breathe down there is poisoned. The taint is in the blood. Mr. Cortwright and his fellow bandits call it the 'Mirapolis City,' but the poor wretches on lower Chigringo avenue laugh and call it Gomorrah."

"Just at the present moment it is a city of fools—and I, the king of the fools, have made it so," said Brouillard gloomily. From his seat on the porch step he was frowning down upon the outspread scene in the valley, where the triangular shadow of Jack's mountain was creeping slowly across to the foot of Chigringo. Something in the measured eye-sweep brought him to his feet with a hasty exclamation:

"Good Lord! the machinery has stopped! They've knocked off work on the dam!"

"Why not?" she said. "Did you imagine that your workmen were any less human than other people?"

"No, of course not; that is, I—but I haven't any time to go into that now. Is your telephone line up here in operation?"

"No, not yet."

"Then I must burn the wind getting down there. By Jove! if those unspeakable idiots have gone off and left the concrete to freeze wherever it happens to be—"

"One moment," she replied, while he was reaching for his hat. "This new madness will have spent itself by nightfall—it must. And yet I have the queerest shivery feeling, as if something dreadful were going to happen. Can't you contrive to get word to me, some way—after it is all over? I wish you could."

"I'll do it," he promised. "I'll come up after supper."

"No, don't do that. You will be needed at the dam. There will be trouble, with a town full of disappointed gold-hunters, and liquor to be had. Wait a minute." She ran into the house and came out with two little paper-covered cylinders with fuses projecting. "Take these; they are Bengal lights—some of the fireworks that I bought in Red Bank for the Fourth. Light the blue one when you are ready to send me my message of cheer. I shall be watching for it."

"And the other?" he asked.

"It is a red light, the signal of war and tumult and danger. If you light it, I shall know—"

He nodded, dropped the paper cylinders into his pocket, and a moment later was racing down the trail to take his place at the helm of the abandoned ship of the industries. Brouillard descended upon his disheartened subordinates like a whirlwind of invincible energy, electrifying everybody into instant action. Gassman was told off to bring the Indians, who alone were loyally indifferent to the gold craze, down from the crushers. Anson was dispatched to impress the waiters and bellboys from the Metropole; Leshington was sent to the shops and the bank to turn out the clerks; Grislow and Handley were ordered to take charge of the makeshift concrete handlers as fast as they materialized, squadding them and driving the work of wreck clearing for every man and minute they could command, with Gassman and Bender to act as foremen.

For himself, Brouillard reserved the most hazardous of the recruiting expeditions. The lower avenue had already become a double rank of dives, saloons and gambling dens; here, if anywhere in the craze-depopulated town, men might be found, and for once in their lives they should be shown how other men earned money.

"Shove it for every minute of daylight there is left," he ordered, snapping out his commands to his staff while he was filling the magazine of his Winchester. "Puddle what material there is in the forms, dump the tupper buckets where they stand, and clean out the mixers; that's the size of the job, and it's got to be done. Jump to it, Grizzly, you and Handley, and we'll try to fill your gangs the best way we can."

"You'll be up on the stagings yourself, won't you?" asked Grislow, struggling into his working coat.

"After a bit. I'm going down to the lower avenue to turn out the crooks and diamond wearers. It's time they were learning how to earn an honest dollar."

"You'll get yourself killed up," grumbled Leshington. "Work is the one thing you won't get out of that crowd."

"Watch me," rasped the chief, and he was gone as soon as he had said it.

Strange things and strenuous happened in the lower end of the Ni quia valley during the few hours of daylight that remained. First, climbing nervously to the puddlers' staging on the great dam, and led by Poodles himself, came the Metropole quota of waiters, scullions, cooks and porters, willing but skill-less. After them, and herded by Leshington, came a dapper crew of office men and clerks to snatch up the puddling spades and to sell their clothes and blister their hands in emptying the concrete buckets. Mr. Cortwright's contribution came as a dropping fire; a handful of tree-cutters from the sawmills, a few picked up here and there in the deserted town, an automobile load of power-company employees shot down from the generating plant at racing speed.

Last, but by no means least in numbers, came the human derelicts from the lower avenue, men in frock-coats, men in cowboy jeans taking it as a huge joke; men with foreign faces and lowering brows and with strange oaths in their mouths; and behind the motley throng and marshaling it to a quickstep, Brouillard and Tig Smith.

It was hot work and heavy for the strangely assorted crew, and Brouillard drove it to the limit, bribing, cajoling or threatening, patrolling the long line of staging to encourage the awkward puddlers, or side-stepping swiftly to the mixers to bring back a detachment of skulkers at the rifle's muzzle. And by nightfall the thing was done, with the loss reduced to a minimum and the makeshift laborers dropping out in squads and groups, some laughing, some swearing, and all too weary and toll-worn to be dangerous. "Give us a job if we come back tomorrow, Mr. Brouillard?" called out the king of the gamblers in passing; and the cry was taken up by others in grim jest.

"Thus endeth the first lesson," said Grislow, when the engineering corps was reassembling at the headquarters preparatory to a descent upon the supper table. But Brouillard was dumb and haggard, and when he had hung his rifle and cartridge belt on their pegs behind his desk, he went out, leaving unbroken the silence which had greeted his entrance.

"The boss is taking it pretty hard," said young Griffith to no one in particular, and it was Leshington who took him up savagely and invited him to hold his tongue.

"The least said is the soonest mended—at a funeral," was the form the first assistant's rebuke took. "You take my advice and don't mess or meddle with the chief until he's had time to work this thing out of his system."

The shouts of the mob were ringing in Brouillard's ears when he strode dejectedly into the deserted maproom, and the cries were rising with a new note and in fresher trembles a little later when Grislow came in. The hydrographer's blue eyes were hard and his voice had a tang of bitterness in it when he said: "Well, you've done it. Three men have just come in with a double handful of nuggets, and Mirapolis makes its bow to the world at large as the newest and richest of the gold camps."

Brouillard had been humped over his desk, and he sprang up with a cry like that of a wounded animal.

"It can't be; Grizzly, I tell you it can't be! Steve Massingale planted that gold that I washed out—played me for a fool to get me to work for the railroad. I didn't know it until—"

"Until Amy Massingale told you about it this afternoon," cut in the mapmaker shrewdly. "That's all right. The bar Steve took you to was barren enough; they tell me that every cubic foot of it has been washed over in dishpans and skillets in the past few hours. But you know the big bend opposite the Quadrenal hills; the river has built that bend out of its own washings, and the bulletin over at the Spotlight office says that the entire peninsula is one huge bank of gold-bearing gravel."

At the word Brouillard staggered as from the impact of a bullet. Then he crossed the room slowly, groping his way toward the peg where the coat he had worn in the afternoon was hanging. Grislow saw him take something out of the pocket of the coat, and the next moment the door opened and closed and the hydrographer was left alone.

Having been planned before there was a city to be considered, the government buildings inclosed three sides of a small open square, facing toward the great dam. In the middle of this open space Brouillard stopped, kicked up a little mound of earth, and stood the two paper cylinders on it, side by side.

The tempered glow from the city electric lights made a soft twilight in the little plaza; he could see the wrapper colors of the two signal gars quite well. A sharp attack of indecision prompted him to place both of them on the tiny mound. With the match in his hand, he was still undecided. Amy

"Brouillard, This Is Simply Hideous!"

Massingale's words came back to him as he hesitated: "Light the blue one when you are ready to send me my message of cheer. . . . On the lips of another woman the words might have taken a materialistic meaning; the miraculous gold discovery would bring the railroad, and the railroad would rescue the Massingale mine and restore the Massingale fortunes."

He looked up at the dark bulk of Chigringo, unrelieved even by the tiny fleck of lamplight which he had so often called his guiding star. "Take me out of your mind and heart and say which you will have, little girl," he whispered, sending the words out into the void of night. But only the din and clamor of a city gone wild, with enthusiasm came to answer him. Somewhere on the avenue a band was playing; men were shouting themselves hoarse in excitement, and above the shouting came the staccato crackling of pistols and guns fired in air.

He struck the match and stooped over the blue cylinder. "This is your message of cheer, whether you take it that way or not," he went on, whirling again to the silent void. But when the fuse of the blue light was fairly izzing he suddenly pinched it out and held the match to the other.

Up on the high bench of the great mountain Amy Massingale was pacing to and fro on the puncheon-floored porch of the home cabin. The girl's gaze never wandered far from a dark area in the western edge of the town—the semicircle cut into the dotting lights and marking the site of the government reservation. It was when a tiny stream of sparks shot up in the center of the dark area that she stopped and held her breath. Then, when a blinding flare followed to prick out the headquarters, the commissary and the mess house, she sank in a despairing little heap on the floor, with her face hidden in her hands and the quick sobs shaking her like an ague chill. It was Brouillard's signal, but it was not the signal of peace; it was the blood-red of revolution and strife and turmoil.

Dinner Stories

It is sometimes hard to make other persons understand a question which seems perfectly plain to one's self. Along this line this story was told the other day.

"A gentleman while taking a morning walk down a country lane met a boy driving some pigs to market.

"Whom do these fine pigs belong to?" asked the gentleman.

"Well," said the lad, "they belong to that there big sow."

"No, my boy," said the gentleman; "I mean who is the master of them?"

"Well," replied the lad, "that there little un; 'e's a beggar fer fighting."

Uncle Josh, who lives in a Vermont town, keeps summer boarders. Among the boarders that recently beautified his front porch was a particularly pretty girl.

"Mr. Smith," remarked the pretty young girl, on going into the corner store one afternoon, "do you keep powder?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, miss," was the hasty assurance of the proprietor.

"I am so glad!" ecstatically chirped the fair boarder. "You may give me ten cents' worth please."

"All right, miss," responded the imperturbable proprietor. "Face, gun or insect?"

Two men who stammered considerably met one day and began a conversation. They were proceeding with considerable difficulty, when one of them remarked:

"Did-d-do you s-s-s-stutter all three t-t-t-times?"

"N-n-n-no," replied the other, "only when I t-t-try to t-t-talk."

RUSSIA ALSO OBTAINING CHINESE FOR LABORERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Harbin, April 22.—The Russian government requires about 20,000 more coolies to replace men who are serving in the army, and is arranging with the Chinese contractors at Harbin to supply these workmen. One intermediary is to be employed for every 100 coolies. These coolies are needed for dock work in Vladivostok, for work along the Russian railways, in the mines and in agriculture.

ACHES AND PAIN

Don't neglect a pain anywhere, but find out what causes it and conquer the cause. A pain in the kidney region may put you on your back tomorrow. Don't blame the weakly for swollen feet, it may be an advanced warning of Bright's disease. A pain in the stomach may be the first symptom of appendicitis. A creak in a joint may be the forerunner of rheumatism. Chronic headaches more than likely warn you of serious stomach trouble. The best way is to keep in good condition day in and day out by regularly taking GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL Capsules. Sold by reliable druggists. Money refunded if they do not help you. Beware of substitute. The only pure imported Haarlem Oil Capsules are the GOLD MEDAL.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am sixteen years and seven months old. Must one have a high school education to become a nurse, or is graduating from the eighth grade sufficient? (2) Would I be old enough to enter a hospital this summer? (3) I have several girl friends, but one girl who works with me tells me untrue things about me and so every once in while they get angry and don't talk to me for a few days. When we get friendly again they blame it all onto this one girl. This has happened a few times and now we made up my mind not to go with them again. Am I right in doing this? (4) One of the girls I work with has a bad reputation. After work (we quit at 5 o'clock) she has asked me to go uptown with her. I refused and now she asks my chum, who goes sometimes when she teases her. My chum tells me that she is forbidden to go with her, but she pleads so hard that she just can't refuse. Don't you think she ought to tell this girl she is forbidden to go? (5) A high school education is required at almost all hospitals. (6) No. (7) If they do not trust you rather than the other girl when she says untrue things about me, I think it would be well to find friends who would trust you. (8) She ought to tell the girl that she is forbidden and the reason why. Whatever she says should be as kind as she can make it. (9) No. (10) No.

Household Hints

SANDWICHES.—Spread a bit of brown bread with butter and French mustard, and a bit of white bread, cut to fit the former, with butter and cheese creamed together. Finish as usual.

Harlequin Sandwiches, No. 2.—Spread the brownbread with butter and cheese creamed together, and the white bread with butter, then with cucumber, chopped fine and seasoned with French dressing, to which a few drops of onion juice have been added. Hunter's Sandwich—Cover with fresh bread, cut in thin slices, with fresh butter; over this a layer of creamed cheese, and over the cheese spread a layer of honey. Press two similarly shaped pieces together and serve at once. (Maple syrup can be substituted for the honey.)

Club Sandwiches—Have ready four triangular pieces of toasted bread spread with mayonnaise dressing; cover two of these with lettuce, lay thin slices of cold chicken (white meat) upon the lettuce, over this arrange slices of broiled breakfast bacon, then lettuce and cover with the other triangles of toast spread with mayonnaise. Trim neatly, arrange on a plate, and garnish with leaves of lettuce dipped in mayonnaise.

Peanut Sandwiches—Chop freshly roasted peanuts very fine, then pound them until smooth, season with salt and moisten with thick cream.

Simple Home Remedies.—Finger nails may be kept clean if, before undertaking a piece of dirty work, such as polishing the stove, the nails are drawn across a cake of soap and filed. Afterward cornmeal is excellent to use with soap for removing grime from the hands.

For Car Sickness—Take one or two soda mint tablets or one tablespoon of lime water in a little water the last thing before going out of street car.

Baked Halibut—Have three or four pounds of halibut. Dip the dark skin in boiling water and scrape clean. Rub with salt and pepper. Put into a clean pan and pour milk over it until one-half inch deep. Bake about one hour, basting with milk. Remove skin and bones, arrange on platter in the original form, serve with plain drawn butter and egg sauce or cream sauce and garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg. The milk keeps the fish moist and makes the skin brown better. Use just enough milk to steam and let it cook away toward the last. Or sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top with tomato sauce and serve.

Maple Parfait—Sweeten thick cream with maple syrup, then whip until thick. Sprinkle an ice cream mold with chopped nuts, pour in the cream and cover with wrapping paper; then press the lid down securely; bury in crushed ice and salt for four hours. Slice and serve.

Pie With Custard—Line pie tin with rich crust. Bake little before putting in the filling. To three egg yolks add one teaspoon sugar, pinch of salt; beat until very light; add one cup milk and cup of applesauce, turn into pie shell and bake in moderate oven until custard is firm. Beat whites of two eggs to a stiff dry froth, add three tablespoons powdered sugar, beat until smooth, put on top of pie and return to oven for a few minutes until meringue is a delicate brown.

Stuffed Ham—One medium-sized ham, one pint bread crumbs, one teaspoon mustard, three eggs well beaten, one teaspoon red pepper, one cup brown sugar, three pickles chopped, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon black pepper, one tablespoon chopped celery, one cup sweet milk, half egg, cloves. Boil ham three hours. After it is cold, skin it and make incisions in the ham one inch apart, lengthwise, and as deep as possible. Make a stuffing of the bread crumbs and a teaspoonful each of mustard, cloves, cinnamon, allspice, three well-beaten eggs, black and red pepper mixed, the chopped pickles and the sweet milk. Mix these ingredients thoroughly into a soft paste, fill the incisions and cover ham with the same. Put in oven and brown slowly. Garnish ham when done with slices of boiled egg and pickles, sticking a whole clove into each piece of pickle.

Muffins—Take one-third of a cup of butter, one-fourth of a cup of sugar and beat to a cream. Add to this one egg. Sift over three times two cups of flour, three level teaspoons of baking powder and half a teaspoon of salt. Add these to the first mixture, alternately with the milk beaten thoroughly and add a scant half pound of dates cut fine. Bake in a hot, well-buttered muffin pan.

BLIND MAN WINS CONGRESS SEAT.—Thomas D. Schall, of Minneapolis, Minn., is blind but in spite of this handicap he is the new representative of the tenth district of his state in congress. Mr. Schall, a Progressive, was born in Michigan in 1877.

Former Chorus Girl Suing for Right Name.—(By Associated Press.) Amsterdam, N. Y., April 22.—Eleanor Pendleton Davidson, once chorus girl and a former wife of Louis Marshall Ream, heir to one-sixth of the estate of his millionaire father, the late Norman E. Ream, gained the first point in her attempt to win back her married name.

Judge Borst held the young man must appear today and submit proof in answer to the allegations made by Mrs. Ream that the annulment of her marriage was obtained by fraud.

The girl claims Ream and she still love each other, but that his people influenced him to leave her.

Never Correct a Person Before Others.—Never correct one person in the presence of another. Never use a superior air. Mention casually some similar fault of your own which you are trying to overcome.

Be reasonable. Talk quietly. Know what you are going to say before you speak, point out pleasantly and logically the harm the fault does.

Never nag.—And don't forget to shed the sunshine of encouragement when you see the slightest opportunity. It is for your advantage as well as theirs. There are a few rules for helping others to overcome their faults. And while you are concerned on the subject of faults here's one more don't—Don't forget your own.

People Take Things Too Granted.—When they do so, they are learning one of life's painful lessons—that even the best of us are prone to notice and complain when things annoy us, and take things for granted when they go smoothly.

I am afraid it is the exceptional parent who makes it a point to watch for and encourage the child's first attempts to overcome a fault.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE WAITING FOR PEACOCK PARADE ON BOARD WALK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Atlantic City, N. J., April 22.—One hundred and forty thousand persons from all parts of the American continent, are camped in 500 hotels and boarding houses here today waiting for the gorgeous and magnificent event, Easter Sunday on the Boardwalk.

Railroad and hotel men are prepared to care for 30,000 more excursionists who will flock here during the next twelve hours.

Senators, congressmen, millionaires, workmen, candelers, sports, nobles and acquaintances with their wives and their women are here, ready for Dame Fashion's perennial Peacock parade.

From early this morning the great crowd has been mobilized. Train after train and an endless string of automobiles whirled into the resort.

The thousands who marched and counter-marched on the Boardwalk in their staggering motley of color and fashion indicative of a nation's prosperity, were only forerunners of the brilliant demonstration of wealth and fashion tomorrow.

An hour before midnight the Boardwalk in front of the amusement places, theatres and lobster palaces was congested as a village street on a circus day. From the Shelbourne up the wooden way to the Rudolph, a solid mass of humanity flowed along, bent upon every variety of pleasure.

Perspiring waiters dashed about the hotels and cafes while obdurate special guards at the doors held back late arrivals begging admittance.

Prospects tonight were for ideal weather, a trifle windy, but warm enough for the paraders tomorrow to show their fashion creations to the best advantage.

The biggest affair of its kind ever held outside of New York will be the "white breakfast" to be staged in the morning at one of the new hotels. The big American dining room which ordinarily seats 700 persons, and which occupies more than one-fourth of the main floor of the structure, will be used.

All the women guests at the breakfast will be garbed in white frocks, shoes, hose and hats. The men will wear white silk roses in their coat lapels. To enhance the color scheme, while silk roses flowers, the true symbol of discarded cares, will be distributed in large bouquets to the women.

After the breakfast, which will present a never-to-be-forgotten picture, there will be an Easter morning musical at which the star will be Mme. Galski, the prima donna.

FERD. T. HOPKINS & SON, New York City

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Letters may be addressed to Wm. A. BRADY, M. D., in care of the Gazette.

THE CONTRIBUTION OF A WILFUL WOMAN.

My son, aged thirty-six, writes a determined, we might say wilful woman, has had epilepsy ten months. The family physician saw the first attack and told us what it was. He gave general advice about diet, bathing, rest from certain mental work and medicine. The patient has always been of the nervous type, a hard worker, but the family history is clean. He has never used tobacco or alcohol, but has been a very heavy eater. He has also been constipated for years. He has never taken much exercise.

We took him to two different osteopaths. Both treated him for about three months. One of them also made him fast two weeks, to get rid of a lot of poison he said clogged the system. But neither could stop the awful fits, that is, for more than a few days.

Then we took him to a chiropractor. He said some of the vertebrae of the spine were out of place, and guaranteed to cure my son in thirty adjustments for $100, paid in advance. I never pay anybody in advance—I have a rating and own property—so I didn't have the vertebrae adjusted. He said that told everybody who visits a chiropractor is told the same thing, and moreover, one of the best orthopedic specialists in America examined my son two days later and found the spine absolutely normal in every respect.

Then we took the patient to a nerve specialist, whom the family doctor had suggested in the first place. He was unable to give him an appointment for a week, but we waited. He then gave the boy a most thorough examination, including an X-ray photograph, which showed the spine perfect. And he made a blood "positive plus." On the strength of this examination they injected some thing into the spinal canal. That was over three months ago. My son has not had a fit since, and to all appearances is well. He returns every two weeks to the doctor (the family doctor) for observation. And let me say, sir, that when you "harm" on the family physician, as you call it, you are doing God's work for it was only your wise counsel that brought us back to our senses in time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. "Semper Juvenilis!" I do not see why you go out of your way to insult the "old women." Is there anything criminal in being old? I know some women of advanced years who are very good doctors. And their patients prefer them to old or young men doctors, too.

Answer—Right you are. The women physicians do give us strong consolation—both the old women and the young women. And when we say "the old women," you ought to understand we are using a figure of speech. Old age in itself needs no defense. Besides, aren't we all getting along in years?

Grandma, However, Stands By. I am seventy-four, and I have nine grandchildren. In our family fresh air is, in fact it always has been. So we rarely have a doctor, and for that reason we keep all your articles. Please tell me if it is harmful for me to walk two miles a day? I have done so pretty regularly for years, but my son fears I am overdoing, though I am fine and healthy.

Answer—Your son, grandma, is hereby admitted to probationary membership in "the old women." Keep on walking for at least twenty years yet. You are our kind of grand mother. Report immediately if son attempts to force the rocking chair on you.

She Sheds Many Tears. I have an overflow of tears on the cheek for several years. I am suffering for catarrhal trouble, without relief. A specialist opened the tear duct several times, but that also failed to benefit me. The specialist now wishes to do a little operation to make the lid lie closer to the eyeball so that it will prevent the overflow. I am not sure whether I should have this done. What shall I do?

Answer—The operation is a customary procedure, and usually gives satisfactory results.

OHIO HAS A WOMAN WHO TRAINS RACE HORSES

(By Associated Press.) Lebanon, O., April 22.—Ohio boasts of one of the two women in the whole country who train and race horses. Miss Vesta Stubbs of this city now is preparing her stables for the coming campaign in the state harness circuits and looks forward to a successful season. She conducts a trotting farm of her own and has made money at it. In her string is Orphan Boy, which has been a factor in Ohio trotting circles.

Just So. "What have you there?" "An automobile catalogue." "Why do you read so many automobile catalogues? You haven't the price of a car." "Well, you gotta keep posted on automobile matters in order to understand the jokes."—Kansas City Journal.

It's Full of Surprises

Here's a house design that's different. It is as far ahead of ordinary houses as this year's automobile is ahead of a 1908 model.

Look at the exterior. Doesn't it leave an impression of "make-yourself-at-home"?

Inside the house you get the same warm welcome.

You open the door into the living room and see a splendid fireplace with built-in book-cases on either side.

Unusual care is shown in the planning of kitchen and dining room. Study the floor plan and see how every little detail has been provided for.

The second floor plan is just as full of surprises. There are two bed rooms, hall, bath room, a sleeping porch, and plenty of closet room.

Further information regarding this plan can be obtained by addressing "Homes of Character" Dept., care Gazette.

Suppose Their Were Hot Water Mains In Front of Your House

Would you connect your bath tub to them?

We can give you a hot water service which amounts to exactly the same thing. An AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER, hidden away in the basement, will give you hot water every time you turn the faucet. It heats the water as it flows from the mains to the bath tub, kitchen sink, wash basin or laundry tubs. There is no interruption in the service and the cost is very small considering the great convenience and comfort it gives.

HIGH AVERAGES DUE TO POOR PITCHING

Batters Fattening Up With Stick As Hurlers Have Not Reached Their Best Form.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Chicago, April 22.—The usual early season high batting averages prevailing in the first week of the major league season, according to figures published here today and including games last Wednesday, Janvry of the Boston Americans tops all batters with the startling percentage of .360, in the National league, George Burns, New York; Mollwitz, Cincinnati; and Butler, St. Louis, have averages of .360.

Clay Chase ranks fourth in the National league with a percentage of .355, is tied with Carey of Pittsburgh for the lead in stolen bases with four, and with Seier, Chicago, and Merkle of New York for the lead in home runs with one. Following Chase, the batters making up the list of "three-hitter" batters are:

Gonzales, St. Louis, .429; Compton, Boston, .428; Shaw, Brooklyn, .417; Daubert, Brooklyn, .407; Clarke, Cincinnati, .400; Whittey, Philadelphia, .385; Doyle, New York, champion last year, .385; Magee, Boston, .375; Niehoff, Philadelphia, .375; Hinman, Pittsburgh, .364; Konechy, Boston; Kauff, New York; Rariden, New York; and Baird, Pittsburgh, .332. Heine Groh, Cincinnati, leads in runs scored with six and is tied with Merkle of Philadelphia in total bases at 100. National league pitchers are led by Alexander of Philadelphia, with two games won and none lost, and Schneider of St. Louis, with the same record. Ty Cobb evidently has not struck his stride for he is far below the .323 class, having hit for only .231. Following Janvry in the "three-hitter" class are Spauldinger, Cleveland, .474; Henriksen, Boston, .421; Gibson, New York, .429; Baker, New York, .385; Pratt, St. Louis, .360; Hohlitzel, Boston, .353; Schalk, Chicago, .346; Heffelfinger, Detroit, .345; Jackson, Chicago, .333; Burns, Detroit, .332; Felsch, Chicago; Sisler, St. Louis; Shorten, Boston; and Milan, Washington, lead in home runs with one each. In St. Louis, with the same record, and Baker, New York, are ahead in stolen bases with three apiece; Hellman, Detroit, and Veach of Detroit lead in total bases with eighteen. Jackson of Chicago, with seven, has scored the most runs.

American league pitchers credited with two wins and no defeats are Fieber, Chicago, and Ruth, Boston.

TAGGART CUP WILL BE PRIZE AT TOURNAMENT OF CENTRAL STATES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Toledo, O., April 22.—The sterling silver cup to be known as the Taggart Cup, which will be the trophy of the Central States Golf association, now in the process of manufacture. The cup will come to Toledo for exhibition prior to the second annual tournament of the association which is to be held on the Inverness links July 10-12. The cup is 35 inches high and costs $500. It is donated by Thomas Taggart, United States senator from Indiana.

Samuel P. Jernain, president of the Central States Golf association, declares the cup is one of the most beautiful ever seen given as a trophy. It is to be put up each year and the golfer winning it three times in succession becomes its permanent owner.

Wad Diddel, former Indiana state champion, now of the Evansville Country club, has one leg on the trophy, having won the tournament match last year at Indianapolis. The coming tournament promises to surpass all expectations of previous club officials, according to Mr. Jernain, who is devoting considerable time to make the gathering a success. He has assurances from Detroit of more than 100 entrants, Columbus, Youngstown, Cleveland and other Ohio cities, as well as large representations from Indianapolis, Louisville, Fort Wayne, Muncie and other cities.

START ORGANIZATION OF A GYMNASIUM UNION AT GOPHER COLLEGES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Minneapolis, April 22.—Dr. L. J. Cooke, athletic director of the University of Minnesota, has started a movement to organize a state gymnastic society, because the events of the Northwestern gymnastic society differ from those of the Western intercollegiate gymnastic conference. Carleton, Macalester, Hamline, St. John, St. Olaf, Gustavus Adolphus, Luther seminary, St. Thomas and Concordia college have been asked to join the association.

Gopher athletes compete in both meets and as the Northwestern society events are of a different nature and are held two weeks before the western events, the big meet of the year, the Minnesota "U" men claim to be greatly handicapped for the latter affair.

UNIVERSITY "M" CLUB TO FOUND A BUREAU TO FIND ATHLETICS WORK

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Minneapolis, April 22.—Thirty-one former University of Minnesota athletes, who possess "M's" have completed plans to cooperate with the university "M" club, which is composed of undergraduates who have received the emblem, to establish an employment bureau for Gopher athletes. The bureau also will send out communications to promising athletes at minor schools, presenting the advantages offered at the university.

Dennis Willie, secured by the Portland coasters from Cleveland, wrote the officials of the club that he must have a bonus if he hits .275 or better. President McCredie of the club wrote back that he would have to hit at least .300 to even hold his job, whereupon Willie came to and signed his contract. Quaker birds, some of these ball players.

ROBINSON'S DODGERS A STRONGER TEAM THIS YEAR THAN LAST

Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers announces that his team is in much better condition now than it was at the beginning of the season last year. Chief Meyers, last year with the Giants, has effected a come-back as a Dodger. Larry Cheney, obtained late last year from the Cubs, bids fair to have a great season. Outside the battery points the team will be practically intact from last fall.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

Nig Clarke, the veteran catcher, with Houston last year, will play with Mobile this season, the Houston club having traded him for Hub Northern, outfielder. Clarke may be used on first base by Mobile, as Calhoun, the first sacker of the team for the past three years, has been released, along with Second Baseman Perry.

Monte Priest, the pitcher released by Brooklyn to Montreal, had been expected to make good with the Dodgers on his record in the New York State league last year, where he won something like a dozen games and lost but one.

Benny Kauff says his name is not pronounced that way at all. It is "Cow." of the barnyard or dairy farm variety. Some people thought it could be pronounced to rhyme with laugh. The news from Benny will be a disappointment to poets who were forming up a few things on him.

Catcher Bill Meyers of the Athletics is only twenty-three years old, but has had a good deal of baseball.

Some Brooklyn "fans" are always ready to pan Ollie O'Mara, the clever little shortstop of the Robins. Every time the hustling infielder slips up on a hard one the boneheaded "fans" yell to take him out. There is a collection of fatheads out at the Brooklyn ballpark every day who seem to take special delight in roasting Ollie. This same collection don't know a real player from an onion, and it would be a mighty good thing for the respectable patrons and players alike if these objectionable persons could be removed.

Jennings was much disappointed that his new pitchers did not come through for him this spring. One of the men with a big minor league reputation was Fagan from the O. K. league. He proved not to be O. K. though down in Harry Ford Sinclair's district he managed to win every game he pitched. Another disappointment was "Rube" Marshall, a giant right-hander, though saddled with the name of "Rube," Marshall has been shunted to Montreal. A teammate of his in Chattanooga last year, George Cunningham, still remains in the Detroit entourage. Elmer Smith and Cunningham used to be pals up in Duluth.

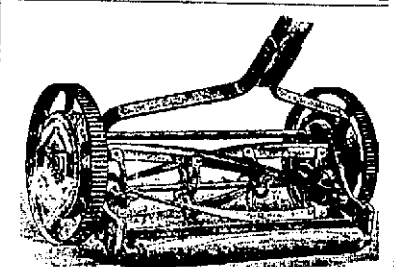

Fred Falkenberg, the Cleveland club's star hurler in 1913, is back in organized ball. Falkenberg jumped to the Reds from Cleveland and when the outlaws quit business was left stranded. Now he has signed up with Bresnahan's Toledo association team.

CLEVELAND EXPECTING MUCH IN TENNIS MEET

Cleveland, April 22.—Cleveland tennis fans are looking forward to the biggest national event ever held in their city, the clay court championships, which are booked for the Lakewood Tennis club's courts June 24-July 1. Seating capacity for 6,000 spectators will be provided. Among the stars expected to take part are Clarence Griffin, Elia Fottrell and possibly R. Morris Williams. Chick Benoit, Cleveland's star in the tennis firmament, probably will enter, and Johnny Vidren, a promising youth, will also represent the Forest City.

RED SOX WILL PLAY EVANSVILLE SUNDAY

Janeville Youngsters Go Up Against Evansville Tigers Sunday at Fair Grounds.

The youthful Red Sox will have their best test in two years' time, when they play the Evansville Tigers at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon, starting at three o'clock. The Sox will go up against a team older and more experienced and expect to add to their long string of victories.

Evansville is reputed to have a fast aggregation of diamond athletes who will give the Sox a hard run and they may outclass them. The Red Sox will have their star however, Herb Kasse, for the game, with Spohn behind the log. So far the Sox have won two games this season and had little trouble in coming home with the game in both contests. Their infield has been showing great defensive powers with Miller at first, Hill, second base, Jackson in the shortfield, and McGinley at third. Jackson is a clever player for the shortfield for his age. So far the Sox have not displayed any great prowess with the bat, one of their great faults.

Catcher Walter Schmidt of Pittsburgh is said to be a wonder on hand bunts. In a recent practice game he had eight assists, each being on a bunt or slow hit in front of the plate.

Why Newspaper Advertising Is Particularly Valuable

By B. M. Penn, Advertising Manager
J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co.

The value of newspapers as advertising media depends entirely upon the object advertised. For automobiles selling in metropolitan markets the newspaper is of great value to the advertiser, primarily because nearly everyone is interested in the news. I find this desire for news on the part of readers of particular benefit to an advertiser, and therefore interesting to the newspapers, because at hurried times, when one has little time for general reading, he nearly always makes the opportunity to keep in touch with what is going on by reading the newspapers.

The busy commuter figures the time on the train well spent because it gives him the chance of reading his morning and evening paper. The farmer during the busy season when his working days are very long, at night feels little like general reading, but can always find a short time at the end of the day, or end of the week as the case may be, to find what has been going on outside his own sphere.

It is this desire on the part of nearly everyone to know what his neighbor is doing that makes the newspaper of value to an advertiser.

To be sure, its readers oftentimes are very hurried in their perusal of the news, but in the long run the American people are primarily interested in the news of the present time. Therefore, we profit in the automobile business by the desire of the reading public to know what is going on.

Exquisite Grace in The Dancing Frock

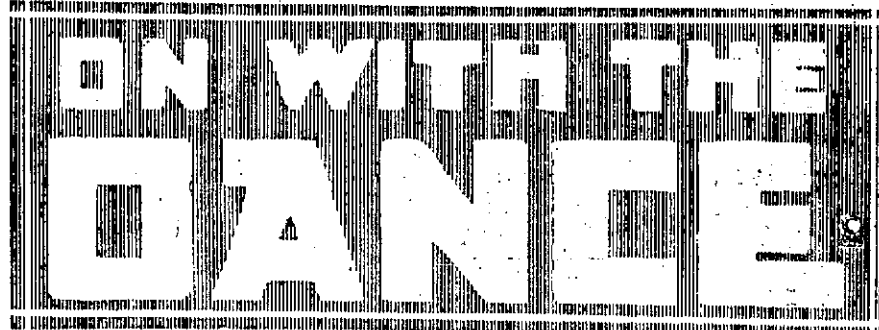

Depends Upon the Corset

The dancing frock and party gown is too often deprived of the charm they deserve by a poorly fitting corset.

The Gossard Corset with its front lacing, gives you a figure, a grace, a style, an ease of motion possible in no other corset.

We have a special model for dancing that is extremely popular with all classes of dancers and especially with the professional who realizes the superiority of the Gossard.

Mrs. Adelaid F. Leonard
No. 5 North Main Street.

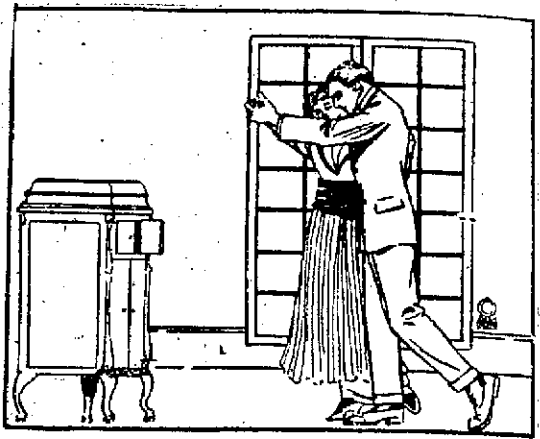

With the close of the lenten season and the advent of Easter come the days of festivities and dancing. The post lenten season this year will witness a number of brilliant parties the earliest of which the Unique Club party on Monday. To make each party completely enjoyable each of the shops on this page offer you their services.
